Collateral w/ Shirley McDaniel
family neighbor

Said they met the family in 1982 when they moved to Moore's neighborhood.

She said he was a polite, well behaved child, who played well with ~~her~~ her children. She remembered that when Lee was in 5th grade another boy also named Lee (Cobb) who was a real bully in the neighborhood. Cobb would pick on D. Pushed D off D's bike.
D did not lash back.

On another occasion Cobb & his cousin Frank started to approach the D but when Mrs. McDaniel came out of her house the 2 boys changed directions.

She said ~~Lee~~ (D) went to church with family frequently. Was in the house often with her family, played with her children, and played basketball with her husband & son pretty much daily.

She said Lee belonged to the group of "good boys" in the neighborhood and tried to stay away from the bad influences in the neighborhood.

Supervision:

Visitation w/ Fa every other weekend, but said Fa wasn't much of a good influence. Mrs. Moore complained to her neighbor that Fa didn't encourage her son.

Mrs. however took him on vacations, participated in his daily activities, took him to church and encouraged him to play football when Lee explored that. Mrs McDaniel said Mrs Moore kept a schedule of meals & chores for him daily and would come & get Δ if he didn't show up on time for dinner, etc.

Mrs McDaniel said she never heard Lee be disrespectful to her or to his mother. She said he always kept his promises to

	Ms. McDaniel was working with A's mother to make sure that there was always a ride to and from work to make sure that he could stay away from the Cobb boys.
	She described an event in her son's life where he was jumped on by a group of boys who picked him. Her son also turned rebellious for a period of time as though to prove how tough he is.
	She feels that if she felt A was a troubled child she wouldn't have let the A hang out w/ her child.

	Last time she saw him was Oct or Nov of last year. He looked a lot different because of facial hair & build. But even then he was polite and said he couldn't stay because he had to cut grass for his mother before he could return to his father's house

Beverly
Call at w/ ~~Beth~~ Parker, sister @ work 1pm 626-3525
Her call back to me @ 9¹⁰ AM 9-14-94
She said in hindsight she thinks that he really struggled with his parents being divorced, but that's not enough for this.
She said he wasn't a fighter or a playground bully when he was growing up. She did say she thought he got into some fights as a kid, but thought they were provoked by another kid.

As the oldest child Ms Parker felt that her brother was overprotected and when he got out into the world he fell into the wrong crowd.
She said she suspected that he was "using a little weed and some alcohol" but she felt that it was a passing phase. She also was somewhat concerned about his juvenile contact but still felt that he was trying to exert his independence.

She said she was very surprised about this turn of events because he's not ever been loud, never aggressive

	She said she thinks he was suffering from depression from not being able to get into a work program, mother was putting pressure on him to get somewhere in his life.
	She said even though she thought he was using drugs (mjs or etoh) he didn't ever exhibit any personality changes. There never was a point where she could say this is where it happened.
	The only group change she saw was after he'd gotten beaten up a couple of times at school. She said that he didn't change outwardly. He later (recently) has told his family that he felt it necessary to belong to a crowd to protect himself. He got into the wrong crowd according to sister.

Once he got into this crowd he started getting into trouble. He ~~was~~ was held back in school & sister attributes it to his drug/etoh use and skipping school. Then he was too old and was still in school. When he turned 18 he said he wouldn't go back to school. Mother said if you are dropping out of school you will live w/ your father. That's when mother gave up trying to marshal him. Father's reaction was to let Lee make his own decisions, and didn't control Lee.

	it was because she was working,
	"not sitting on some barstool, adhere to that rule he couldn't spend the night. He never talked back or became angry he just said OK in an apologetic manner, and never spent the night again.

This is similar in pattern to what mother described his behaviors as when she repeatedly tried to contain him & eventually told him he couldn't stay in her home.
